Size

Getting the correct size for your custom product box ensures the items fit properly and can be safely delivered.

Mailer boxes offer a large width or height to hold multiple items, while shipping boxes are your best bet for providing a bigger number of products in one go. The various product box style sizes will depend on the actual size of your product.

Budget

Other box features such as a thicker cardstock, premium coatings like gloss or spot UV and custom inserts will cost more than a mailer box made of standard corrugated cardboard. Businesses that want to invest in branding to a high-end market can explore these options. You can save on costs for smaller companies on a limited budget with bulk orders. The larger your box order quantity, the less you spend per piece to maximize the total cost.
